Reach for the Son

Michael Glazier learns more than songs in his music class.

Look Lisa, I'm going to fly!

Marie solves the equation.

Catch The Dream

"Buzzz," went the alarm clock, off went the blankets, and on came the light. It was time to face another day.

By the time we got to school, most of us were awake . . . or almost. Whether or not we were, praise and worship each morning helped us to start the school day on the right foot.

Bit by bit, we woke up and forgot the soft, warm bed at home, as the Sonlight came in and lit up the way. There were tests to pass, things to learn, games to win, and goals to reach.

We learned who we are in Christ, and we wanted to become all that He called us to be. We saw the dream when we came to GCS . . . and we caught hold of it.

We fight the mud to find our parking lot.

Cindy's mind wanders off the subject.

Diana and Susan discuss the day's trials and triumphs.

Coach Jones instructs and encourages the team before the big game.

Take A New Look

The laughter of children, the feel of a fresh, soft breeze, the tears of a friend, and the thrill of winning . . . we experienced all these at GCS. We took time to smell the flowers as we went along the way.

Feeling your tummy tickle when you swing real high, playing helpers' tag, and climbing on the monkey bars were lots of fun during recess and playtime. Laughing and learning, children enjoyed their friends and freetime.

Intensity, sacrifice, fun and sometimes pain and tears were a part of winning and losing. We worked diligently to attain excellence. Together we practiced, ran, drilled and sweated. We experienced the thrill of competition and teamwork and the joy of victory.

Our Father has blessed us with each other and we wanted to make the most of each relationship. Cutting-up and carrying on, having fun and goofing off were all a part of being friends, but so was being a good listener; loving friends enough to tell them when they're wrong, and offering a shoulder to cry on.

The Lord gave His all for us and we give Him joy as we experience His love and goodness to the fullest. Because of Him we have an abundant, vibrant, and joyous life . . . a life of life.

Jessica turns her world upside down.

In eight years we'll make the varsity soccer team!

Make The Grade

Crowded halls, lots of homework, cramming for tests, sharing notes (and sometimes passing them) is what went on at GCS this year.

In the halls between classes, you could hear encouraging words like, "I'll pray for you when you take that test," or "You can see my notes since you were late to class." Of course, there was always somebody who asked, "Can I see your homework for next hour?"

Our teachers put in lots of hours making up CHALLENGING tests, preparing for class, and staying after school with us. They were always willing to help us succeed . . . and always willing to assign plenty of homework.

As we worked to achieve the high mark . . . or at least a C average . . . we kept our eyes on the goal. We didn't just want to make the grade; we wanted to be prepared for the life the Lord has called us to live.

School's Out

Once upon a time . . .

"Hey Todd, how do you say cheat in Spanish?"

It all fit in here this morning!

Ambra takes art class seriously.

'When I Run, I Feel His Pleasure . . .'

With hearts and hands outstretched, we proclaim His Majesty. Until His Day dawns and the Morning Star rises in our hearts, we shall reach for the Son.

In joyful anticipation, we throw aside every encumbrance that so easily entangles us, and run with endurance the race that is set before us; keeping our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith.

We are His reflection in this world and we came here to learn how to let that Light shine forth in all its glory. We were reproved, encouraged, and led in the way we should go. Here we learned that we have a purpose and a goal.

With the Son in our eyes, we press on toward the mark of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus . . . knowing that He who began a good work in us will perfect it.

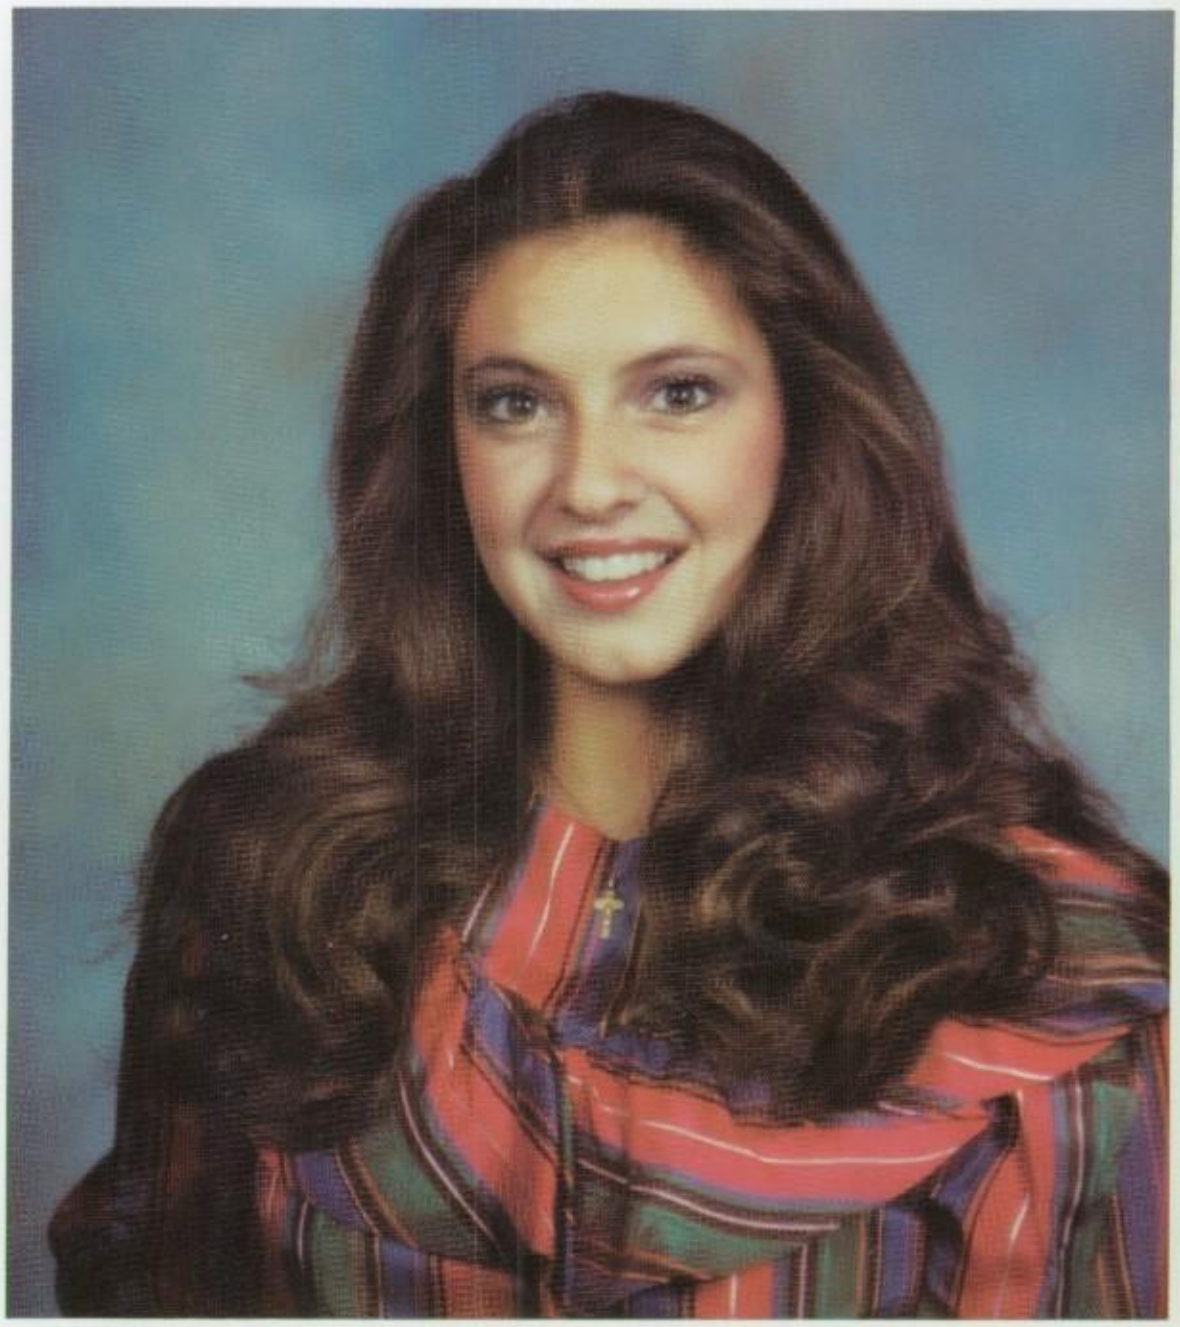
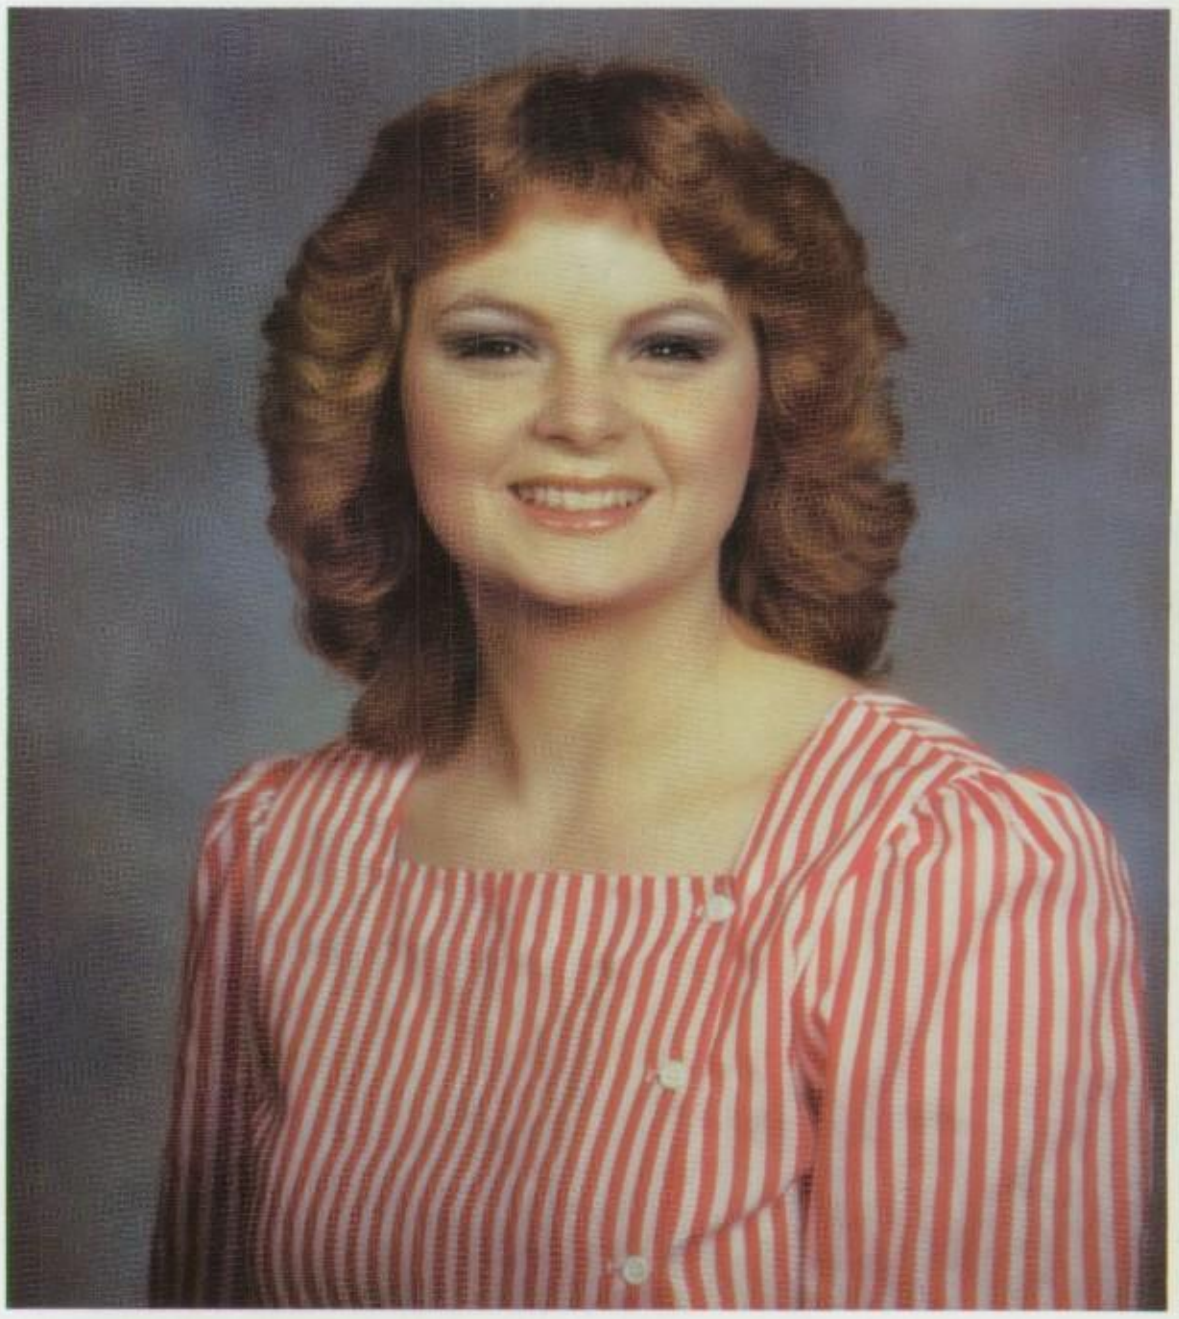
Class of 1983



Jacqueline Lee Butler

After I graduate from GCS, I plan on returning to Philadelphia, my hometown. There I'll major in fashion design at La Salle College. After my four years at college I would like to go to New York and open a boutique. These are my tentative plans, but I am still open to the Lord's call.

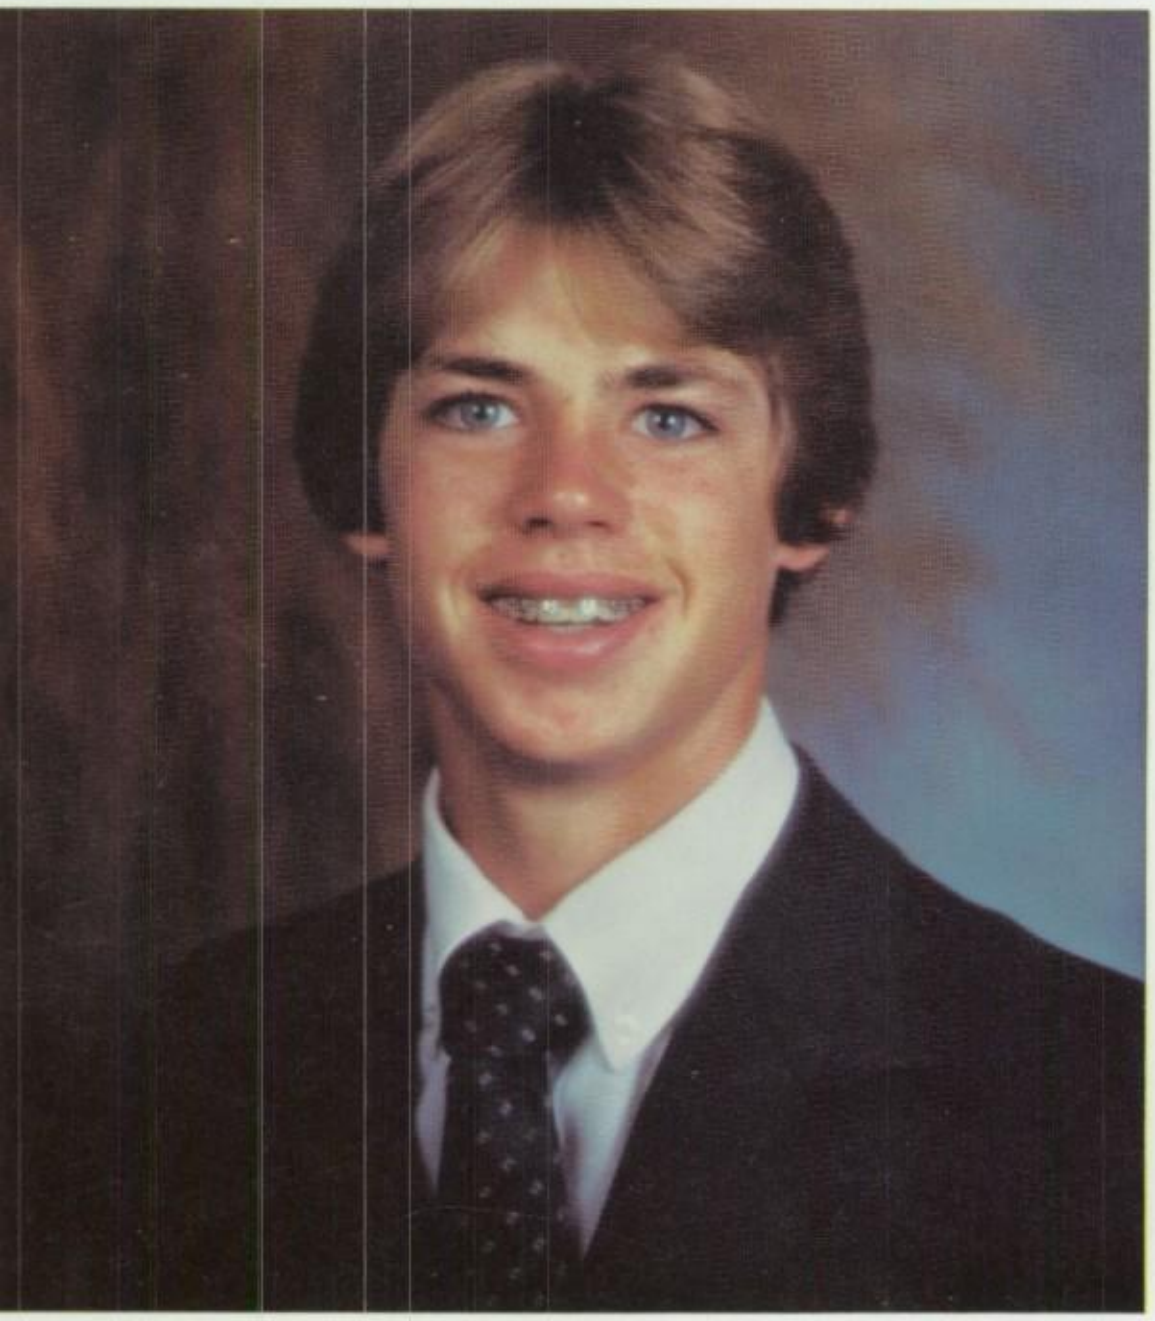


Jamie Michelle Larkan

I plan to go to ORU and major in Computer Science after I graduate from GCS. I really thank God that He has provided the finances for me to go to a Christian school. I believe they are the best, both spiritually and academically. I love the Lord and my goal (with His help) is to be successful in everything I do.

Stephanie Michelle Tyra

At the end of this year I plan on using the skills I obtained at Tulsa Junior College to get a good office job. I would like to further my knowledge in the office sciences field by attending a vocational school. Mainly, I want to develop my musical talents in voice and guitar and to become a professional Christian songwriter and glorify the Lord in music.



Frank William Wagner

When I graduate, I want to work and save my money for college. I want to be a forest ranger in either Arizona or Pennsylvania. I hope to do the very best I can in all I do and to do the right thing for my life. I have not felt the Lord has called me into the ministry thus far, but I am open to the calling if the Spirit leads me.

Standing As One

There were not many of us . . . true. But we had a job to do and we were determined to do it well; to be the GCS Senior Class of 1983 and to be the best one yet.

We were seniors in service; serving each other, ourselves and most of all our God. Whether it was serving by lighting a fire, serving the Lord in song, or even serving a tennis ball, we always made sure that what we did represented our school in a positive way and brought glory to the Lord.

We each had individual talents and achievements, but when it came right down to it, we stood as one. When we had to make decisions about the future, we were always ready to help one another make the right choice and to pray for them in time of need.

As we step out now on our own, we can be assured that we are not alone. For we always have the knowledge that the Lord is by our side, and the memory that the class of 1983 stands as one.

Michelle lights up our lives with laughter.

The Lord gives Stephanie a new song.

Advantage, Butler!

Frank fires up the fiesta.

From Dinosaurs to Sweet Potatoes

Dinosaurs, pigs, turtles and elephants filled Mrs. LaScelle's fifth-grade room. The outdoor-loving class made clay sculptures of different animals in their natural surroundings.

Growing sweet potatoes and lima beans, memorizing the Declaration of Independence, and singing for the Thanksgiving assembly kept Mrs. Eargle's class busy in lots of interesting ways.

Third graders became artists when they took a field trip to a frame shop. Each student's drawing was displayed in the shop window, and the outstanding pictures got awards.

Zap! Second graders learned that's what electricity does when they saw film strips and did a special science unit on it.

Red, blue, green and yellow — kindergarteners and first graders spent lots of their free time coloring and having fun.

Giggling, playing, and learning were part of the year for everyone. As children reached to the future, they took time to experience the fun of the present and the goodness of the Lord.

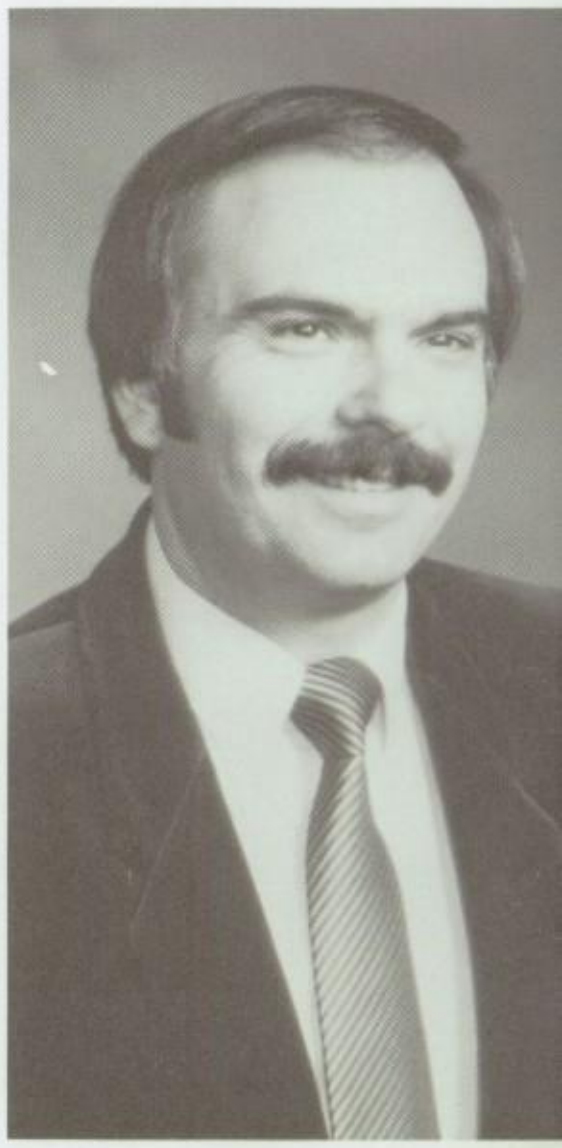
Administration and Faculty



In Matthew 12 Jesus told a man with a withered hand to reach out toward him in faith." . . . And he stretched it forth; and it was restored whole . . . " (vs. 13). By reaching for the Son of God, healing always comes.

The students have grown, matured, and received healing in all areas of their lives as they reached out to the Lord in faith during this school year.

Mr. Notley, the teachers and I are all proud of the progress they have shown in a year of changes and new challenges.

The future looks even brighter as we continue to reach toward "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today, and FOREVER."

Just For the Kick Of It!

We started from scratch this season. New coaches, new players, and the fact that the game of soccer was pretty new to most of the guys on the teams made it a challenging season for GCS.

Starting from the ground up, we began building a soccer program at GCS. Our coaches believed that good conditioning was the best foundation to start on; so we began running, kept on running and then ran some more.

When the season started, we all had a lot to learn: things like teamwork, how to lose without hanging our heads, discipline, sportsmanship and how to play soccer. It was a lot of fun when, after all that practice, we finally scored a goal, made a sparkling defensive play or made a terrific save as goalie.

As a young team we put forth our abilities as much as we could and then made the most of it. We felt frustration because we wanted to win, but we could see that our score at the end of the season was better than when we started. We're not finished yet; we've only begun!

One Team With One Purpose

Bumping, setting, spiking, blocking, and winning should make you think of the girls' volleyball teams this year at GCS. Lots of hard practice hours were logged — so was plenty of goofing off — but all added up to strong teams this year.

We were one team with one purpose — to play to the glory of God. We learned how vital it was to be in unity and play as a team. That closeness and oneness strengthened both teams' play. Placing third, the junior high girls finished an exciting season in the conference with a 9-6 record. The varsity girls finished their season with a 19-3 record.

By overcoming TCA in a playoff match, the varsity girls won a trip to the conference championships in Springfield, MO. Capturing victories and catching boys was the rule for the girls at the tournament. We brought home the consolation trophy and the title of #1 in Oklahoma — not to mention a few phone numbers and addresses.

Through the season, each of us found the area where we could best help the team, and then we worked to do our best, just like in the body of Christ. Depending on the Lord and playing to His glory, we shouted out, "One, two, three, Christ is our strength!"

High Hopes

Looking to the future, the junior high boys team spent lots of time on the basics this year. We filled up our practice hours dribbling, passing, shooting, and running our plays until we could do them in our sleep. The hard work paid off; we built a strong team with a winning record.

The varsity boys team at GCS "went through the fire" this season. The young and inexperienced team came up against some of the best teams in the conference. 1982-83 was a building year at Grace, and build we did.

Working on offense, defense — and our grades — we learned to practice discipline; Coach Jones expected it of us. The season was one of learning. We went through some tough experiences, but as each week progressed, we could see steady improvement and the development of the unity that was so important.

A good foundation was laid this year. Armed with the skills and experience we gained this season, and backed by the players moving up next year, we're looking to the future with high hopes.

Sean strolls down the court.

Okay guys, now we've only got a few minutes left . . .

Not Another Overtime?!

Girls basketball at GCS . . . double overtimes and more! Intensity and excitement marked the season as GCS came up against tough competitors. Several of the contests weren't decided until two or three overtimes had been played, unnerving and exhausting for Coaches Moran and Jones, as well as for us.

Through it all, the varsity girls team shined with excellency. Finishing the season with the "winningest" record of the Tulsa teams in our conference, we added several trophies to our collection and several of our girls were selected to all-tournament teams.

The junior high girls gave their share of excitement to Coach Moran, too. Double overtime contests and other close games were standard fare.

This year there was a new emphasis on teamwork. Our coaches taught us to really run our plays and work to get each other open.

"Don't you ever give up," Coach Moran would say time after time, until it became a part of us. Those attitudes of teamwork and persistence paid off in our games, and are paying off in our lives.

You can do it, Michelle!

Coaches Make Us "Perfect"

"Practice makes perfect," so they say, and GCS coaches really believed the saying. The coaches could be seen before school and after school, continually working to improve our athletic skills. They also showed us that Christian principles are vital in all athletics.

Mr. Hovenesian, junior high boys coach, believes that on the junior high level "we are there to have fun" and develop basic skills. It is important to win, but developing character and proper attitudes are equally important. The junior high team plays together well and has a very good attitude — whether winning or losing.

Mrs. Moran, girls coach, has a lot of good things to say about "her girls." "Everyday the girls work so hard; they give their best in practice and at the games." Her teams have learned that they are just like the body of Christ. Everyone has a place — a calling. Some are leaders, some are encouragers, and some are "steady" (always there when you need them).

The varsity boys coach, Mr. Jones, is excited about teaching his team to know who they are in Christ. He says that to be successful in sports, you first have to learn how to play the game and then practice until you can. He sees a lot of potential in his team. He knows his team is playing at a level for which they are not prepared, but as long as they "keep playing there is always hope."

Now that the perspiration has dried and our muscles aren't sore, we look back and have to admit it was worth it. The skills we've acquired and the memories we've obtained will last us a lifetime. Thanks coaches, we couldn't have done it without you!

Pep Club Pops Into Action

Pep, come on now; "pop" a little louder — popcorn that is.

The GCS Pep Club manned the concession stand and boosted school spirit this year.

Late Monday afternoons saw members firing up the popcorn popper in anticipation of the hungry crowds coming to watch the Eagles in action. The fresh popcorn, candy bars and soda bolstered the cheering fans.

Pep's lookin' good; pep sure is.

Brian empties another kettle of hot popcorn.

Shout . . .

New uniforms, new people, new cheers and a new unity marked the year for GCS cheerleaders.

Encouraging our players, building school spirit and having fun kept us busy as cheerleaders for the Eagles.

Pom-poms, skits like "The House is on Fire" and cheers (with our players helping out) highlighted our all-school pep rallies. The spirit generated at the rallies carried over to the evenings' games, and let our teams know we were for them all the way.

Backing us up all the way was Mrs. Moran with her encouragement, support . . . and home-cooking that couldn't be topped.

Through the ups and downs of the year, we did a lot of growing and a lot of learning. We learned to get back up when we were down, to work together, and to accept each other's ideas.

Cheering for the Grace Eagles was #1 with us and we had fun building up that Eagle spirit.

Preparations Point Us To Homecoming

Yipee-i-ay! Spirit Week started off with a hoot and a holler on Cowboy Day. Students donned western shirts, hats, boots, and jeans — the Old West came alive at GCS.

Baby bottles, rag dolls, and baseball caps followed on Little Kids Day.

Doctors, lawyers, nurses, soldiers and many more showed up at school on Occupation Day.

Cuffs rolled up, class rings and old white shirts were the fare for Fifties Day.

While all this was going on, in the background Student Council members scurried here and there, making frantic phone calls and other preparations for Homecoming. There was much to do — alumni had to be contacted, decorations bought, flowers ordered, reservations made and much more.

Blue and White Day found everyone immersed in the final preparations. We had only hours to hang the banners, streamers and balloons to transform the gym into a festive stage for the evening's activities.

The hustle and bustle quieted down about an hour before the evening's activities began. There was a feeling of exhaustion, but plenty of satisfaction — we had made it!

Anticipation Sets The Evening's Mood

The shimmer of satin, the rustle of gowns and a haze of perfume filled the girls' dressing room the evening of Homecoming. There were nervous cries of, "Does my hair look okay?", "I can't find my eyeliner," and "I hope I don't trip over my dress," as the girls and their friends got the finishing touches just right.

Next door, the boys nervously tied and retied their ties. After a few jittery tries at pinning on their boutonnieres, Mrs. Eargle rescued them and calmly pinned the flowers.

Anxiously lined up in the foyer, the attendants and their escorts awaited their cue. The theme from Ice Castles wafted across the gym — the moment had come.

The crown bearer and flower bearer started their looong journey down the runner to where Mr. Jones and Mrs. Kennedy awaited them.

The freshman attendant and her escort stepped onto the long white runner, took a deep breath and with a smile, started their procession. Sophomores, juniors and finally the seniors paraded across the gym and up the steps to the streamer bedecked stage.

"Oooh's" and "aaah's" met Michelle, as Cam escorted her down the runner to the foot of the steps. The music stopped, Mr. Jones stepped forward and the evening came to a climax — Michelle Larkan was crowned our 1983 Homecoming Queen.

Mrs. Kennedy looks pretty relaxed for being so busy.

"I Don't Believe I Won . . ."

You wait in desperate anticipation as the votes are counted. Suddenly, it is announced, and you hear your name ring through the air. You have been chosen as one of the 1983 Homecoming Court — and what an honor it is!

Marie Hrezo was the Freshman attendant for 1983. This was Marie's first year at Grace and she was involved in many activities, such as cheerleading and Spanish. She would like to someday become an interior decorator; a field in which she is sure to be a success.

Our Sophomore attendant, Diana Solberg, has attended Grace for two years. She is also very active in the school and she plans to continue her education at Oral Roberts University, and eventually major in psychology.

During Brenda Glassford's fourth year at Grace, she served as our Junior attendant. Brenda would like to someday join her sister in Costa Rica and minister there.

The Senior attendants brought a very special experience to our Homecoming Court this year. For the first time in Grace Christian School's history, we had two Senior attendants.

Jacqueline Butler was one of the attendants that represented the Senior class. This was Jacqueline's first year here, and being the Senior attendant provided something special to always remember.

Stephanie Tyra was the other Senior attendant in the GCS 1983 Homecoming Court. Stephanie was a part-time student at TJC this year, and also served as the editor of the yearbook.She enjoyed being able to be involved in the activities at Grace, where she has attended for three years.

The Homecoming Court of 1983 was one that will always be remembered by those who attended that night. They added a freshness and much beauty to an event that is always very special to all.

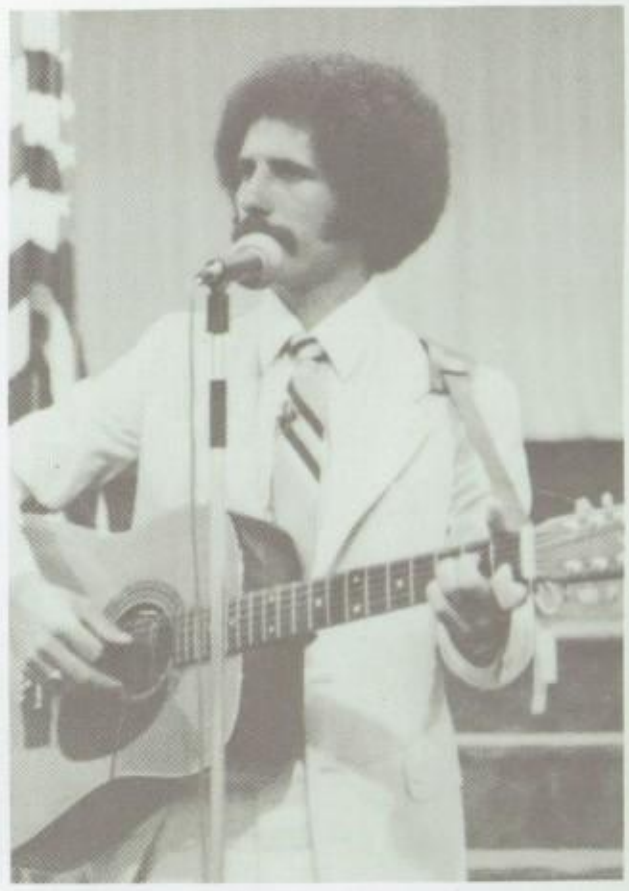
Learning To Love

Learning to love each other, learning to better love Him, and most of all learning to love ourselves, was the theme of chapel this year at GCS.

Singing songs of praise, listening to words of wisdom and slumbering not, made chapel a weekly event that was uplifting and unique. It was our time to put the books aside and enter His presence with thanksgiving. It also gave us a chance to rededicate ourselves and start anew, while getting to know our Father's forgiving nature a little better.

Chapel brought many chaplains as well as guest speakers and singers. George Moss instructed us on how we might hear from the Lord, while Daniel Amstutz helped us develop a new found freedom in our praise.

We brought our prayer requests before the Lord, eagerly anticipated the manifestation, and rejoiced together when it came. Taking time out to say little and listen a lot proved to be the key in taking in all chapel had to offer us.



George Moss tells us from the Word how we can hear from the Lord.

"In the presence of the Lord . . . "

Daniel Amstutz introduces the new upper division youth pastor and chaplain, Dave Norris.

The children put some of their favorite songs into action.

Little ones sing of Jesus' love.

Shepherds and wisemen meet near the stable.

A warm hug gives Christmas joy to one of the residents.

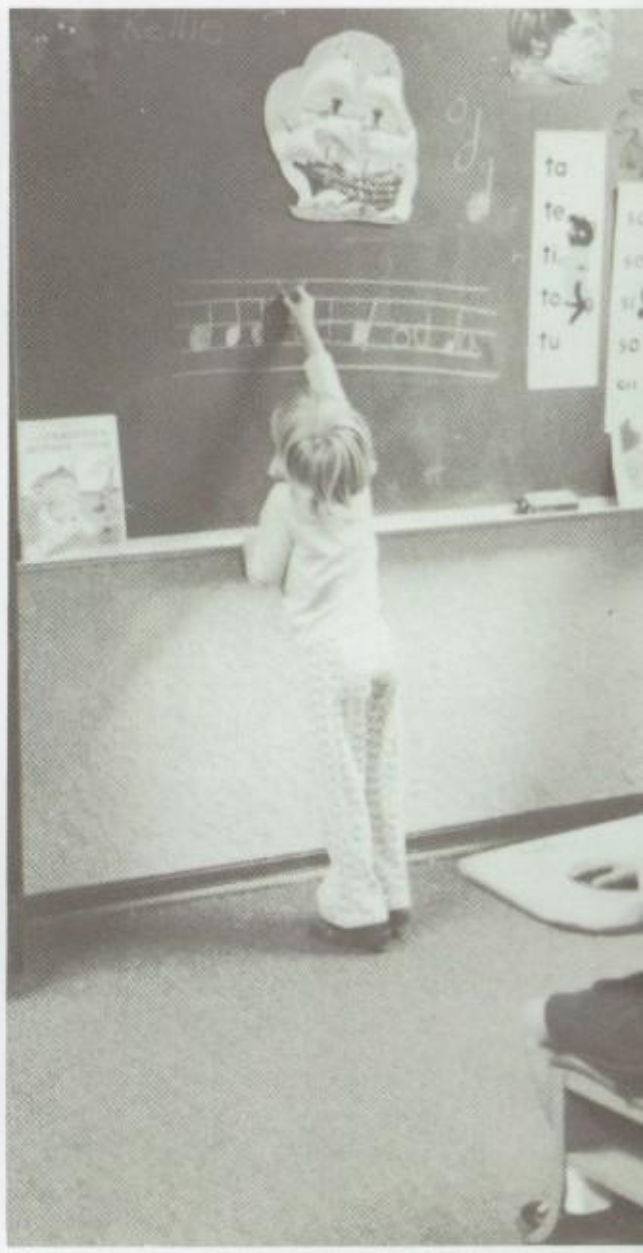
Shepherds adore the baby Jesus.

We Loved on Them

Kindergarteners gave a tender holiday gift — the love of Christmas from the hearts of children — when they visited with the people living in a nursing home.

"Away in a manger," sang little shepherds and angels as they told the story of Jesus' birth. After the presentation, they passed out gifts and hugs and kisses, enjoying the response of love from the older people. A smile of "thank you", and a hug of appreciation from the residents were just a part of the children's blessing for reflecting Jesus' caring.

The children were sad to see that some of their listeners were lonely and unhappy, but by the end of the visit, tears of happiness filled the older people's eyes. The kindergarteners were glad to see their new friends happy; as they simply said, "We loved on them."



Boy, it's hard to reach those high notes.

"The Sound of Music"

Do, re, mi, fa, so, la, ti — "When you know the notes to sing, you can sing most anything!" The students in Mrs. Hawthorne's classes this year learned to experience the fun of music.

Treble clef, bass clef, notes and rests were discovered by elementary students as they went through their music workbooks. Musical tic-tac-toe was a favorite learning game of the second grade.

Most of all, the kids in music class sang, sang, sang. Each class learned a special song or two and livened up our all-school Thanksgiving dinner with their numbers.

Fun, friends and song is what the Junior High Girls Ensemble will remember about this year. Thursday afternoons they got together, warmed up their voices, and started singing. Before the year was over, the girls got to sing at a P.T.F. meeting and in chapel.

Students not only learned the mechanics of music, they also learned the joy of ministering in song. They experienced the fun of making a joyful noise unto the Lord.

Girls Ensemble sings out a Christmas song of praise in chapel.

I know the answer, Mrs. Hawthorne!

Palm Trees And Detentions

Rolling waves, palm trees and surfboards in the kitchen? Only if the rolling waves are made of clay, sculpted by a GCS student in art class. A bowl of fruit and a toy soldier were other students' creations.

Illustrating a song, carving pumpkins and drawing pictures were other projects that kept us busy.

Getting her project ideas for us from the Lord, Mrs. La Scelle urged us to let go, be creative and have fun. Of course, if we let go too much, we'd hear her say, "You have a detention!"

1st Row — Ricky Tyra, Diana Solberg, Lisa Ross, Marie Hrezo, Lori Whittiker, 2nd Row — Mike Goolsbay, Linda Dockens, Kyle Luciano, Mrs. La Scelle.

Adventures In Espanol

"Es tiempo para una fiesta?" — "Is it time for a party?" The Spanish classes enjoyed many party times during this year of new beginnings. Mrs. Jakobcic led us to Rhema Park for a nacho fiesta and then to the skating rink for a few hours of roller fun. We also partied our way through Taco Bueno, happily munching our chalupas and tacos. Those of us with "dientes dulces" (sweet teeth) really enjoyed the fudge party in Mrs. Jakobcic's home.

Spanish class livened up Christmastime at GCS by preparing pinatas and having a party for each elementary class. We sang Spanish Christmas carols and told about holiday customs in Spain.

Spanish class wasn't always party-time though. We learned vocabulary words and conjugated verbs. About the time it got easy, we discovered irregular verbs. They told us that Spanish is easier to learn than English, but at that point we didn't believe it.

After lots of studying, we finally learned to put the pieces together. Now we can actually talk to each other in whole sentences . . . in Spanish!

Carey prepares the final pinata for the Christmas celebracion.

Mrs. Jakobcic teaches the art of making nachos.

O ye of little faith . . .

I'll get it next time.

Phil leads a few songs in "another tongue."

And Some Were Leaders

Student Council meant work! From Homecoming to the Spring Banquet, we kept busy tossing out ideas, planning events, and pursuing goals. Activities were many and everyone's help was a must.

Being chosen as a leader by your peers is always an honor and this year's Council didn't let the honor go to their heads. They waited for instructions and then did their part.

We want to say a special "thank you" to Mrs. Kennedy, our sponsor, whose organization and efforts really made things come together.

Robert, Jason, Diana, and Todd are planning good times for GCS.

Mrs. Kennedy gets things organized so Homecoming will run smoothly.

Outstanding!

Of all the awards here at Grace Christian School, Outstanding Boy and Girl is the most coveted. Academics, personality, maturity, and spirituality play an important role when anyone is considered. This year the two who have displayed these characteristics in their lives are Todd Eargle and Cindy Anderson.

Todd has been with GCS for five years. After graduating from High School, he plans to pursue a career in law. Todd is currently working in retail sales and is actively involved in the life of the school, serving as president of the Student Council.

Cindy, for the last two years, has been a part of GCS. She is very athletic — volleyball is her favorite sport — and she is a strong supporter of all the sports programs here at Grace. But Cindy's main interest is ministering to others through music; she has previously done so here at Grace in the group "PROCLAMATION." Her motto is live-love-and laugh. She lives by this motto while helping others to do the same.

Todd and Cindy have done much to help GCS and the students who attend here. They display their talents and abilities daily, and set good examples for what our school represents.

Time, Tears, And Laughter Pay Off

We either had more than enough time (so we thought) or not time enough. Yet, we met each deadline — sometimes sooner and many times later — and enjoyed the feeling of accomplishment that came along with it. The Cornerstone staff always came through in the end.

Once again we overtook the school office, typewriters and telephones. Mrs. Stewart, Susan and I ran the show and insured that things were done, while doing anything and everything that came our way. Todd sold ads and even tried his hand at photography and succeeded when outdoors. Joel was 95% of our photography staff and kept busy upon request. Cindy proved to be a budding layout expert and did most of the layout work, while Linda helped wherever needed.

This was a year of transition — and the yearbook took every last minute change in stride. We all worked together because we knew that was the only way we were going to be successful. There were times when it was rough and we felt like giving up, but we wouldn't — no matter what the cost.

Now as you read this and hold the finished product in your hands, I'm sure every member of the staff would have to agree with me when I say: all the time, tears and laughter were worth it. It was all worthwhile!

am the head and not the tail.

Ready, aim, smile . . . hurry it's cold.

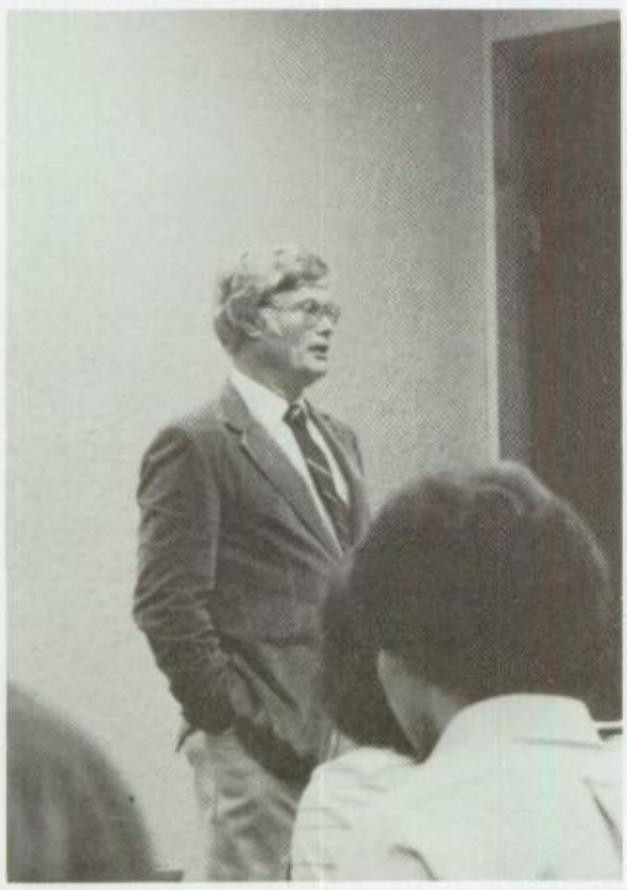
He Was Always There

Just as a tree is known by its fruits, so is a servant of the Lord known by his dedication, understanding and love. In the man who served as principal of Grace Christian School for over four years, we saw all of these virtues — plus so much more.

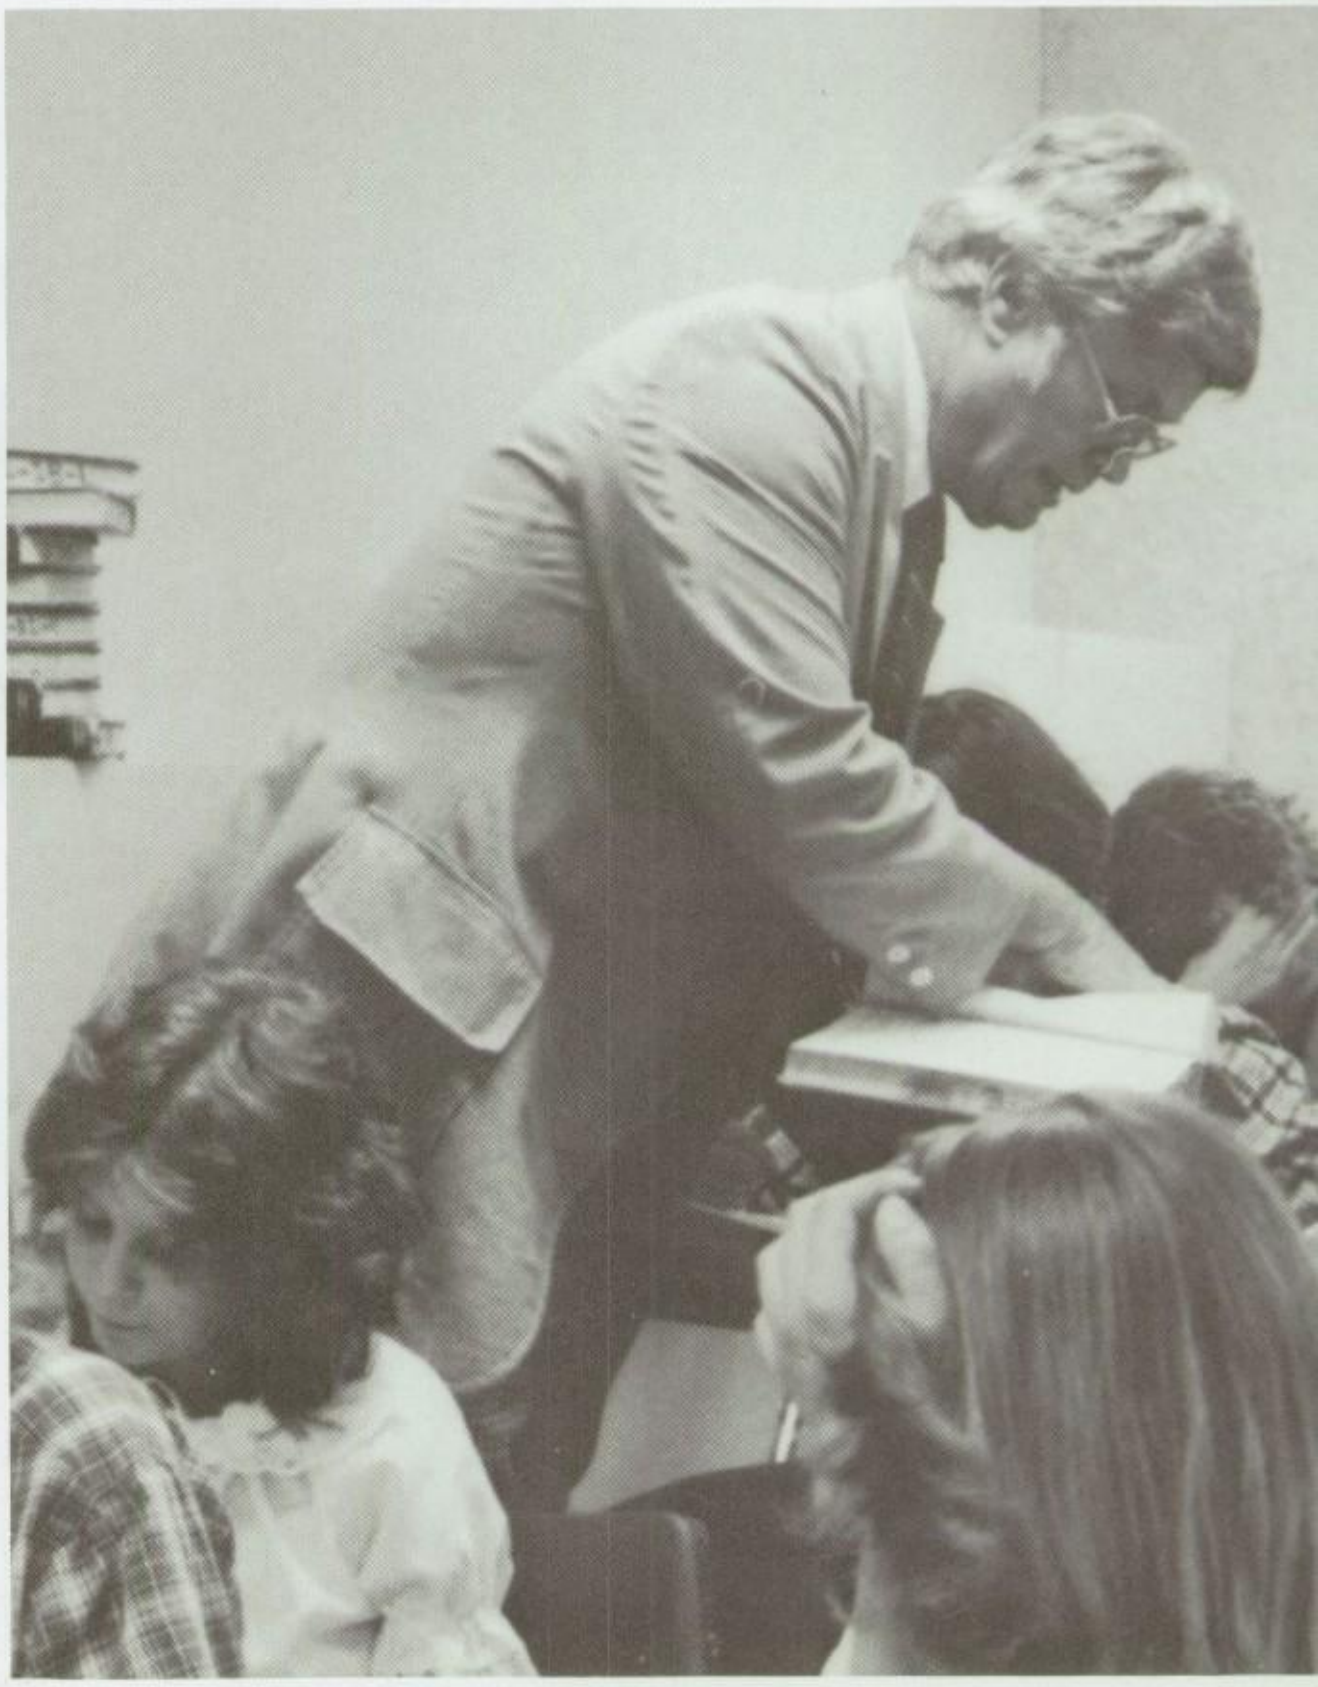
Everyday he brought us a smile and a joke; his little sayings lightened our hearts when we were down. Whether the hurt was large or small, he always gave us the assurance that, "It's too far from your heart to be serious." Encouragement was more than his gift to us — it was his nature.

His hands were never idle, and he was always there to help. From day one of Grace Christian School, he was working, building, praying — making this school what it is and never losing sight of what it shall someday be. He also helped to make us what we are; he disciplined in love, admonished us with wisdom and counseled us with a compassion that came from the heart.

Now from our hearts come these words: thank you, Mr. Notley, for your love, your joy and your help. You have taught us so much and from your example we have learned to walk upright before our Lord. As the Lord's servant, you were the sower, and the seeds of truth you have sown in our hearts shall always remain to bear fruit in due season.



Mr. Notley lays down the law.



Mr. Notley shares his wisdom with students during class.

"Oh gosh, I really don't deserve this award . . . "

"Y-e-s-s-s?"

With a dazzling brilliance, so shines the Wonderous Light,
Revealing hidden darkness, driving shadows from the night.
My hope is now reborn as I leave the past behind,
With brave determination, the Son I search to find.

The road becomes so narrow, but I never cease to run,
The prize is set before me, understanding to be won.
Wisdom's revelation — hidden truths at last uncovered,
In finding them I realize, the Son I have discovered.

Radiance that should have blinded, somehow helps me see,
The Hand of Someone stronger, stretching out to me.
The scars I see remind me of a new life just begun,
With intensity I've never known, I reach out for the Son.

Then with joy I look beyond, to what shall lie ahead,
Eternity shall welcome me, His feast before me spread.
Time shall be a memory, the race of life then won,
Embraced in all His glory, I reached . . .
and touched the Son.

Hi. Let's get started
Last minute well
Let's get down to the good stuff,
Well I forgot entirely
it is. Well, have a great and hope to see you next year.

Love
Lisa

Michelle,
